EAGLETS

Dennis J. Egan is a Democratic leader of force, ability and popularity.

James M. Whalen is making a splendid record as county civil service commissioner. He deserves well at the hands of the people, as he has always been faithful to every public trust imposed on him.

Fred W. Upham is always on hand when Chicago wants him, whether it is to bring a national convention to the city, or to win anything big for the town. Upham is always the leader in the movement.

Richard M. Hennessey, the well known building contractor, has an honored record for ability and efficiency.

George E. Brennan is one of the ablest and most popular Democratic leaders in Illinois. His acquaintance with conditions all over the state, his great circle of friends and his unimpeachable democracy are strong elements in his success.

Michael Corcoran, the popular bill poster, with headquarters at 177 West Washington street is one of the busiest men in Chicago. His work for the government during the war kept him pretty busy, but the business and theatrical world now claims all of his attention.

Frank Johnston, Jr., the popular Circuit Judge, is respected by all classes irrespective of party.

D. Lunde deserves credit for the splendid quality of meats with which he supplies the people.

Judge John Stolk is doing great work for the public in the Speeders' court.

Jacob Levy, the well known Twenty-first ward Democratic leader, would make a good county commissioner.

Robert R. Jampolis would make a great Judge.

There are too many barnacles in the city hall.

The Democratic fight for ward committeemen promises to produce some strange surprises.

Dixon C. Williams has high honors awaiting him at the hands of the people.

Robert E. Cantwell, eloquent, able, courteous and learned is one of the most popular leaders at the Chicago Bar.

Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson is making a fine record and many friends by the able and efficient manner in which he conducts his great office.

Hats for Sunny Climes

Resort hats, which make their appearance in the early winter, bring to our eyes the utmost in the art of the milliner. Every knowing woman who journeys to sunny climes to get away from the cold seems to make up her mind to own the very best millinery that she can get and resolves that, in the matter of headwear, comparison shall not be odious to her. And there is plenty of chance for comparisons, for the throng of people heading south increases every year.

All sorts of hats are prepared in advance for these tourists and, taking them by and large, the street hat, otherwise known as the tailored hat, is the most important member of the distinguished company.

A group of pretty hats for sunny climes shown above include three beauties. At the top a dress hat of georgette crepe has many a prototype in all the light and lovely colors that gladden the season. It has a wide and graceful brim and a round crown covered with blossoms of the cosmos flower in velvet. Its owner will rejoice in it, knowing that it is a perfect bit of millinery.

Adjustable Collars and Cuffs of Fur

The tailored suit is about the most adaptable piece of property in the wardrobe; at home in any clime and rarely out of place in any gathering. Clever women understand how the addition of the right accessories make it fit in with almost any sort of background and this is valuable knowledge for the woman who travels.

A suit that is to do duty anywhere should be made of any of the all-year-round woolen goods, as serge, gabardine, Polart (twill), broadcloth and the like. If it is simply and smartly made so much the better—it lends itself readily to different furnishings and matches up with them. For mild climates and warm weather lace collar and cuff sets add daintiness and richness to the tailored coat.

Collar and cuff sets of fur stand ready to fortify the same suit that has rejoined in the company of lace, when its owner makes an excursion into the cold. These are tacked on and can be easily put on or off. Two sets appear in the picture above each designed to suit the style of the coat with which it is worn. The suit at the left, minus the fur collar and cuffs, proves to be interesting. It has something new in the way of designing to offer with its sloped panel at the front of the coat and the flat straps that are
